

Jennifer Kelly received her PhD in American Studies from the University of Texas at Austin. She also holds an M.A. from the John W. Draper Interdisciplinary Program in Humanities and Social Thought from NYU, and a B.A. (Highest Honors), from the Departments of Feminist Studies and Literature from her alma mater UCSC. As an emergent early-career scholar, Dr. Kelly has already distinguished herself with two peer-reviewed articles, two book reviews, and a nearly complete version of her book manuscript, "Fragmented Narration: Solidarity Tourism in Occupied Palestine". Dr. Kelly was a Chancellor's Postdoctoral Fellow in Asian American Studies at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. This prestigious postdoctoral fellowship follows her two-year appointment as a UC President's Postdoctoral fellow in the Communication Department at UC San Diego. Dr. Kelly will make a decisive contribution to building the CRES program, and brings areas of research that build on existing strengths and expand the department's research profile in the areas of postcolonial and settler colonial studies, Asian American Studies, Palestinian studies, transnational American Studies, and queer theory.
