

Students who complete the Linguistics Major should graduate with the following knowledge and skills:

Analytical Thinking

Capacity for rigorous analytical thinking (e.g., in forming and testing hypotheses).

Writing

Ability to write clearly and articulately.

Language

Understanding of the general properties of language.

Linguistics

Active command of linguistic theory and linguistic investigation.

Students who complete the Language Studies Major should graduate with the following knowledge and skills:

Writing

Ability to write clearly and articulately.

Language Proficiency

Understanding of the general properties of language and proficiency in a language other than English.

Linguistics

Exposure to linguistic theory and linguistic investigation.